

Royalty Free Music License

Music for Dance & Fitness

As a dancer and instructor, I understand how confusing and complicated licencing of commercially available music can be. With that in mind, I started creating royalty free music that I could use in my online studio and I'm making this available for you to use in your classes, while also making sure I receive credit for the effort that went into creating it.

My royalty-free music covers your in-person and online classes and can be used on social media without fear of being blocked. Pay one time for unlimited usage.

You must properly credit the producer and track when using my music. Some examples of this could be:

- This class or video features the song "Song Title Here" by Alexis Southall
- Instagram Music Credit: "Song Title Here" by @alexis.southall

Please include a link to the Bandcamp page or Alexis' website, where the music can be purchased, whenever possible: <https://alexissouthall.bandcamp.com> or <https://www.alexissouthall.com/music>

With my music you can...

- Use this music when teaching in-person or online classes (including class recordings). If you provide a class playlist, you must credit Alexis.
- Use this music in your for-profit pre-recorded classes and videos, as long as Alexis is credited either in the video itself or in your class notes.
- Use this music in your online and in-person performances (both for-profit and not for-profit). Please credit Alexis if at all possible in your verbal or printed show materials.
- Use this music in your social media/other marketing posts or videos. Proper credit is required either in the video itself or in the caption. I understand that your social media videos may be taken and shared out of context without your permission. If you find your video has been shared without a music attribution, I encourage you to contact the poster to add it, or add it yourself in a comment on the post.

- Create and sell choreography set to this music to your students, as long as Alexis is credited. You may not redistribute this music to your students, they must buy their own copy of the song.
- Cut or edit this song for use in your own classes and performances, as long as you credit Alexis as the original creator. You may distribute the edited version to your students, however they must have first each purchased their own copy of the original song.

With my music you can't...

- Redistribute this music, either in its original form or in an edited/remixed/cut version to anyone who has not provided proof-of-purchase of their own copy of the music.
- Use this music in any way (for-profit or not for-profit) without making every effort to properly credit Alexis.
- Claim this music as your own in any way or register it on any platform.
